SELECT THE SNACKS

MOVIE THEATER SPREAD

Popcorn, assorted candy, pretzels - now is not the time to hold back.

ICE CREAM DREAM

Make a Sundae bar, stop at Dairy Queen, or prep just buy yourself a quart of your favorite and take it down.

FANCY FEAST

Meats and cheeses a plenty. The more the spread resembles a charcuterie board, the better.

PIZZA TIME DUDES

Order your favorite pizza or give the new place across town a try. Wings, cheesy bread, and soda are encouraged.

THE FROZEN SECTION

Anything you find in their frozen section of your local grocery store is fair game. Fire up the microwave and oven.

PICK UP AND DELIVER

Pick up some of your favorite snack food from a local restaurant. Whatever you do, do not cook!

SELECT A GOOD DEED

CHARITY

Consider those less fortunate than yourself. Make a donation, no matter how small. Give at the Salvation Army kettle at Walmart, give an online gift to something you believe in, or support a local business.

FAMILY

Let a family member know you love them. Don't have family? Contact the next best thing. Thank them for something via a text, make a call to check on how they're doing, or meet them in person to talk about a shared memory. Bonus points if you haven't spoken in a while.

ENCOURAGEMENT

Encourage someone you know. A co-worker, your boss, a friend, or a complete stranger. No matter how awkward it feels, give them a compliment, tell them what you admire about them, or encourage them in a personal pursuit.

NEIGHBOR

Make some kind of gesture to a neighbor. Offer to help them with their yard, bring them a holiday treat (or a Hot and Ready), or deliver them a gift. You don't need to know someone well to give them movie tickets or cookies.

INVITATION

Think of someone you know who might feel alone. Now consider how you can tactfully invite them into your life somehow. Ask to visit them at the nursing home, have a Zoom call, or ask to meet them for coffee or lunch.

THANKSGIVING

Take a moment to rest and make a list of things that you're deeply thankful for today. Don't throw it away though. Add to it every time you look at it. Look for an opportunity to share your list with someone.
